Featuring
The Great River Road

SPECIAL FEATURE – THE GREAT RIVER ROAD	Illinois’ Great River Road is a US National Scenic Byway that hugs the Mississippi River, taking you through 800 kms of breathtaking beauty scenery - and back over thousands of years of history. You can pick up the Great River Road west of Chicago and follow it all the way to Alton, just north of St Louis in Missouri. This is a journey not to be missed! Great River Road country offers awe inspiring views of the Mighty Mississippi with limestone bluffs, soaring bald eagles and rich majestic forestry. Along the way you can stop off to marvel at spectacular scenery, discover fascinating Native American history and enjoy excellent hiking and outdoor adventures. The Great River Road is filled with historic destinations – you’ll find the grand mansions of Civil War generals, authentic Dutch windmills, paddlewheel steamers and charming, preserved frontier towns from the 1800’s. Don’t travel too fast - there are antique stores where you can hunt for treasures as well as artisan boutiques and Country Stores with unique crafts and souvenirs. You can also stop off at wineries along the way. They offer a sophisticated yet approachable Illinois wine country experience. And as you travel the Great River Road you are always aware that you are in an Agricultural heartland – not least because of the fresh farm to table food! Celebrate this Agricultural heritage – and indulge the big kid in you that is fascinated by monster machinery – at the John Deere Complex in Moline. Get up close and personal to the huge equipment such as combine harvesters, and fun simulators let you find out what it is like to drive one.
Galena	Your first stop is Galena and for such a small town Galena has some big accolades. To name just a few - Condé Nast Traveler magazine rates Galena as the 2nd Friendliest City in the U.S. and the 14th Friendliest City in the world. It is also amongst Smithsonian Magazine’s 20 Best Small Town to Visit in 2013 and Fodor’s 10 best Small Towns in America. The town takes its name from the lead ore “Galena” – and indeed in the mid-19th century Galena was one of the largest sources of lead in the entire world. At the time of the lead mining rush, Galena was a major commercial port on the Mississippi River with a large steamboat

industry. However as the lead ore deposits were depleted, and as the river around Galena eroded due to the mining activities, the steamboats could no longer reach it and Galena became “the town that time forgot”. Which is fortunate for the visitor of today as Galena is frozen in time as this thriving 19th century commercial hub. Many charming old mansions of the wealthy inhabitants still remain - including the home of Ulysses S Grant, 18th president of the United States! The historic main street is little changed. The 1855 DeSoto House Hotel still stand where it greeted guests such as Abraham Lincoln and Stephen A. Douglas and where it served as campaign headquarters for Ulysses S. Grant. Nowadays the main street features boutique shopping and local restaurants with fresh farm to table produce.

One of the best ways to see the town is by taking the Galena Trolley tour. You are given a great overview of all the historic attractions as well as an informative commentary on the history of Galena.

You may be so enchanted with Galena that you want to stay a while. Galena’s newest hotel is The Irish Cottage Boutique Hotel which fuses Gaelic traditions with modern 21st century accommodations. The finest Irish craftsmanship and artwork create a uniquely Celtic ambiance and the hotel is centred on Frank O’Dowd’s Irish Pub & Grill. This is Galena’s premier live entertainment venue and the Pub’s energetic atmosphere is filled with the sounds of Celtic song, laughter, and the clickety-clack of Irish dancers.

A recommendation for dining in Galena is One Eleven Main in the heart of downtown. To showcase the best of the region’s cuisine this restaurant has forged special partnerships with local and regional farmers, artisans and food purveyors. When the menu offers Arnold’s Farm Chicken and Pork and Lange Farm Organic Beef you get that wonderful feeling of knowing where your food comes from.

Here is one of my Travel Show Magic Moments from my trip to Galena: “Day one of my Illinois road trip is surpassing my expectations! After the usual impeccable flight with Porter to Chicago Midway (just 1hr45mins) we have driven west out of Chicago. The countryside has just got prettier and prettier as the hills have grown more rolling and the farms are chocolate box neat. I paused for a wonderful meal at the Holy Mackerel, a converted 1850’s Baptist church and then drove on to the outstanding Eagle Ridge Golf Resort and Spa outside Galena in the far northwest of Illinois. Galena is almost at the start of one of Illinois’ seven Scenic Byways and is a delightful, historic town with fabulous boutiques and craft shops. The whole town is a National Historic District on the banks of the Galena River, near to where it flows into the Mississippi. Many of the gracious mansions are now B&B’s and we take an

	informative trolley tour to see it all. Main Street is picture perfect, with stepped streets leading up the valley side from its plethora of craft shops. It's the perfect place to begin our journey along the Great River Road..."
Fulton	Continuing along the Great River Road to Fulton, home to one of only 12 authentic Dutch Windmills in the US. You can enjoy wonderful views from the top and learn more about the use of windmills at the Windmill Cultural Centre, as well as admiring the collection of 21 miniature working windmills. Mississippi Palisades State Park Drive along the Great River Road National Scenic Byway. This section of the Mississippi is lined by tall bluffs. For dramatic overlooks above the river, stop at Mississippi Palisades State Park. The park is rich in Native American history and offers excellent hiking trails of varying difficulty.
The Quad Cities	Next on your road trip you will arrive in the Quad Cities. The Quad Cities straddle the Mississippi River on the Iowa-Illinois boundary. They are made up of Davenport and Bettendorf in Iowa and Rock Island, Moline, and East Moline in Illinois. But the communities are very much intertwined - so much so that in late July or August "Tugfest" stages a hotly competed tug of war across the Mississippi River between Iowa and Illinois! This is an ideal place to take a Mississippi riverboat excursion. The paddleboat "Celebration Belle" takes you back in time and offers day cruises, dinner and dance cruises and even overnight cruises. The Quad Cities are home to the John Deere Pavilion. Big and small kids alike will enjoy getting up close to the monster farming and excavating machines - and a simulator will give you an insight into driving one of these mighty machines. Contrary to popular belief, John Deere did not invent the tractor. His breakthrough invention was the first commercially successful, self-scouring steel plow. This was in 1839 and steam tractors did not appear in America until 1880. Cast iron ploughs, which had been invented for the light New Hampshire soil, struggled to turn the heavy, sticky Midwest prairie soil - and John Deere's new steel plough was the roots of the manufacturing giant we know today. As well as visiting the modern John Deere Pavilion you can visit two historic homes in Moline that once belonged to John Deere's descendants - the Butterworth Center & Deere-Wiman House. After all that industrial history it might be nice to get back to nature and stop off at the Quad City Botanical Center in Rock Island. New this year is a children's garden - a whimsical interpretation of nature that includes an entry plaza and a child-size version of the Mississippi River with a meandering shallow stream where children can play in the water

Nauvoo	Continue your journey along the Great River Road National Scenic Byway on the Southern part of the route from Nauvoo to Alton. Nauvoo was a thriving community and one of the largest frontier towns in the 1840's. This National Historic Landmark community now has over 40 restored historical sites open daily for tours. Nauvoo was founded in 1839 by Joseph Smith - the founder of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormons). You can learn more at The Joseph Smith Historic Site and the town has a modern Mormon Temple today which, though it is not open to the public, has a Visitor's Centre with an informative film. Many of the first German immigrants to Nauvoo were Mormon, but the influx continued with immigrants of other faiths and Nauvoo was the largest German-speaking town in Illinois until the early 20th century. With over 60 restored historical sites, a visit to Nauvoo is a journey to another time - and a fun way to see it all is to take a carriage ride or wagon tour. As well as many historic homes the downtown district showcases many unique businesses and shops such as the Nauvoo Fudge Factory and the Nauvoo Mill and Bakery. A place to stop on your journey might be the historic Hotel Nauvoo, which is still an inn and as well their restaurant offers a delicious, regionally famous buffet. As Nauvoo also boasts the oldest winery in Illinois you may also want to taste the wine before you move on. Baxter's Vineyards, the oldest winery in the state of Illinois is a small family winery established in 1857. The Wine Barrel at Baxter's is Nauvoo's only full service bar and features Baxter's Old Nauvoo Brand Wines as well as light fare.
Quincy	As you continue South you will arrive in the beautiful city of Quincy with its pristine setting overlooking the Mississippi. Winter brings the majestic bald eagles and spring dresses the city with Dogwood blossoms. Quincy offers you the best architecture outside of Chicago – in fact National Geographic named the corner of 16th & Maine as one of the “Most Architecturally Significant Corners in the U.S.” A remarkable number of pre-Civil War buildings still exist today in Quincy. Many Federal and Greek Revival style homes and commercial structures, built as early as the 1830s, can be found in and around the core of the city. The South Side German Historic District reflects the influence that German immigrants had on Quincy in its early years. Quincy experienced its greatest periods of growth between 1850 and 1880, and again in the late 1890s, as the population began to move north of the downtown into larger homes. Every architectural style popular within the United States during the Civil War through the turn of the century can be found in what is now known as the East End Historic District. The stately mansions and large

	high-style found here are probably the most memorable Quincy buildings. National architectural movements continued to influence the designs of buildings constructed in Quincy during the first half of the 20th century. The Prairie style, made significant by the designs of Frank Lloyd Wright, can be found in homes throughout the city. Quincy also has a large number of Craftsman bungalows. There are festivals all summer long in Quincy where you can discover local wines and cuisine. The “Blues in the District” festival is held in Washington Park. You met Abraham Lincoln on your first stop on the Great River Road at the DeSoto Hotel in Galena. Washington Park in Quincy is where Illinois’ most famous son held political debates with Stephen A. Douglas in 1859.
Alton	Finally the road winds south to Alton, along one of the most scenic stretches of highway in the Mid West. Stop at Pere Marquette State Park for panoramic views of the Illinois River. Be sure to stop at the visitor’s center to see a bald eagle nest. Grafton also makes a good place for a quick chocolate or ice cream break or a stop at a local produce stand for fresh fruit in summer. Alton is the meeting of two great rivers – the Mississippi and the Missouri – and a haven for migrating birds. At the Audubon Centre at Riverlands see pelicans, swans, geese, egrets, eagles and more. Now it is time to get back onto the Mississippi River at the Melvin Price Locks & Dam 26. One of the largest locks and dam on the river, it is a central traffic point for barges transporting soybeans, corn, grain and other goods up and down the Mississippi River. From mid-November through March, keep a look out for the bald eagles which nest throughout the area. If you are now entranced by the Mississippi River you will be fascinated by the story of the explorers Lewis and Clarke. They set out just south of Alton and followed the Mississippi westwards, eventually forging their way to the Pacific Coast in Oregon. Visit the Lewis & Clark Confluence Tower, a 180-foot tower with viewing platforms at different heights for unobstructed views of the rivers and land below. Continue on to the nearby Lewis and Clark Interpretive Center, the site where the two explorers who mapped the western U.S. began their journey in May 1804. The site includes a museum with a replica of their keel boat and Camp River Dubois where they trained and prepared for their trip. Drive south of Alton to Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site and UNESCO World Heritage Site. Cahokia Mounds was the largest prehistoric city north of Mexico from 700 to 1400AD. It was home to nearly 20,000 Native Americans who lived in houses arranged around open plazas and farmed vast agricultural fields. There are over 120 burial mounds at the site.

	Cahokia was larger than London was in AD 1250 - and this fascinating site is a suitable reminder of Man's long association with the Mississippi at the end of your Great River Road journey.

For big kids and small – tour the John Deere Pavilion where you can get up close with monster combine harvesters and try your hand at driving them through exciting simulators. An absolute must see in Illinois is the State Capital of Springfield. Illinois is the “Land of Lincoln” and you can step back in time and follow in the footsteps of Abraham Lincoln, the 16th U.S. president. Visit the home where he lived, the law offices and the Old State Capitol where he worked and the Lincoln Tomb Historic Site where he finally came to rest. You can walk easily between these sites and they all provide rich “living” interpretation. The past moves into the present in the state-of-the-art Abraham Lincoln Museum and Presidential Library. Live like a local and try their famous “Horseshoe” sandwich, or cozy dog. And partake in the festivities, every fall, during their annual International Route 66 Mother Road Festival. The famous Route 66 begins in Chicago at the corner of Jackson Boulevard and Michigan Avenue, just steps from Buckingham Fountain. From there, you can explore more than 400 miles of the “Mother Road” in the Illinois countryside. A favourite stop in Springfield is Shea's Gas Station Museum. Visitors are still greeted by ninety year old Bill Shea, who has a charming and eclectic collection of gas station memorabilia that spans 50 years. The town of Pontiac is a must-see destination along this historic byway as it offers the finest collection of memorabilia associated with the history of Route 66 in Illinois. The Hall of Fame features displays and plaques, plus many other attractions of historical interest - including the bus and van of Route 66 Artist and Icon, Bob Waldmire, and the World's Largest Route 66 shield. 	Indiana until the Wabash enters the Ohio River. This marks the beginning of Illinois' southern border with Kentucky, which runs along the northern shoreline of the Ohio River. Its western border with Missouri and Iowa is the Mississippi River. Its northern border with Wisconsin is fixed at 42° 30' north latitude. The northeastern border of Illinois actually lies within Lake Michigan, within which Illinois shares a water boundary with the state of Michigan.
Geography	Though Illinois lies entirely in the Interior Plains, it does have some minor variation in its elevation. In extreme northwestern Illinois, the Driftless Area, a region of unglaciated and therefore higher and more rugged topography, occupies a small part of the state. Charles Mound, located in this region, has the state's highest elevation above sea level at 1,235 feet (376 m). The floodplain on the Mississippi River from Alton to the Kaskaskia River is known as the American Bottom.
Name	Illinois is an Algonquin Indian name for "tribe of superior men". Illinois' nickname is Land of Lincoln or The Prairie State.
Population	Nearly 13 million and the 5th most populous US state. Chicago's population of 2.7 million makes it the 3rd most populous city in the US
Language	English
Currency	US Dollar – which is currently at 92 cents to our dollar as at May 20th 2014
Tipping	The custom of tipping personnel is a generally accepted practice in Illinois, as elsewhere in the US: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> • 15-20% for restaurant wait staff, bartenders and taxicab drivers for standard service. • About $2 for hotel doorman and valet parkers. • $2 per bag for bellhops.
Government	The Illinois General Assembly, composed of a 59-member Senate and a 118-member House of Representatives, is responsible for enacting, amending, or repealing laws, passing resolutions, adopting appropriation bills and conducting inquiries on proposed legislation. It also acts on amendments to the United States Constitution submitted by Congress, proposes amendments to the Illinois Constitution, and takes responsibility for impeachment and conviction of executive and judicial officeholders in the state. Pat Quinn was elected Governor in 2009; I have had the pleasure of meeting Governor Quinn and can vouch that he is an all-around-nice guy!
Documentation	Passports are required for all Canadian citizens.
Time zone	Illinois is in the Central Standard Time Zone (six hours earlier than GMT). CST is one hour earlier than EST in Toronto and Montreal.
Health	Excellent services available but ensure that you have travellers' health insurance as health costs in the US can be very high.

Safety tips	This is a relatively safe destination for the tourist. One should use the same precautions as when traveling anywhere - try not to travel alone and avoid deserted areas at night.
--------------------	--

CLIMATE
General climate	Because of its nearly 650km distance between its northernmost and southernmost extremes, as well as its mid-continental situation, Illinois has a widely varying climate. Most of Illinois has hot, humid summers and cold winters. The southernmost part of the state, from about Carbondale southward, borders on a humid subtropical climate, with more moderate winters. Average yearly precipitation for Illinois varies from just over 48 inches (1,219 mm) at the southern tip to around 35 inches (889 mm) in the northern portion of the state.
Today's weather	Chicago is 22C and sunny on May 21 st 2014.
Best time to visit	For seeing the sights, spring, summer and fall are the best seasons to visit, but the winter months also have much to offer in the cities, especially Chicago where there are a number of winter festivals.

GETTING AROUND
Getting There	More than 37 non-stop flights travel from Canada to Illinois every day. Fly to Illinois with Porter Airlines : Porter flies direct from Billy Bishop Toronto City Airport to Chicago Midway Airport, with convenient connections from Montreal. Both Billy Bishop and Chicago Midway are smaller, more pleasant airports to navigate. There are 6 flights daily Monday to Friday and up to 4 flights daily at the weekend. Taxis are plentiful and easy to hail in downtown Chicago and offer a convenient way to get around the city. Expect to spend approximately $35-$40 for a taxicab ride from O'Hare Airport to downtown Chicago and $28-$30 from Midway Airport.
Cities	Springfield Rich in history, culture and fun, the Illinois' state capital features historic sites, museums, art galleries, parks, theatre and shopping. Step back in time and follow in the footsteps of Abraham Lincoln, the 16th U.S. president, take a ride on historic Route 66 or stroll through one of Springfield's tranquil parks. Springfield is a city with endless opportunities in the heart of Illinois. Abraham Lincoln spent the majority of his career as a lawyer and legislator in Illinois. He served four consecutive terms in the Illinois State Legislator from 1834 to 1841 and built a successful law practice in Springfield. Lincoln served one term in the U.S. House of Representatives from 1847 to 1849. Throughout the 1850s, Lincoln unsuccessfully campaigned for the U.S. Senate twice. Lincoln's senatorial attempts catapulted his anti-slavery rhetoric onto the national platform and drove his successful 1860 presidential campaign.

ACCOMMODATION TYPES	Every type of accommodation is available in this state, from 5-star deluxe hotels to the many B & B's dotted around the countryside. One of my personal favourites from my recent trip is: Eagle Ridge Resort & Spa in Galena is 231 kms from Chicago. Located on 6,800 acres six miles from Galena, Eagle Ridge offers accommodations ranging from traditional inn rooms to 1-8 bedroom villas and distinctive homes, 63 holes of championship golf and spa.

LIFESTYLES
Kids	In Moline in the Quad Cities, the John Deere Pavilion – The newly redesigned Pavilion offers an up-close look at the company's history, products and solutions to provide food for the world's growing population. New interactive displays, original artifacts, product simulators, an expanded children's area and a plethora of media make a trip to the Pavilion an enriching experience for the whole family. The John Deere Pavilion is a free attraction. For more information, visit deere.com . There's also a huge Six Flags water park near Chicago for cooling them off on a hot day!
Teens	Teenagers will love the buzz and the many attractions of Chicago, but take them outside the city to discover the many other wonders of the state. There are lots of soft adventure opportunities in the Trails to Adventure region in the south, including biking the Tunnel Hill State Trail through tunnels and over trestles. The many Route 66 attractions will also likely appeal.
Romance	There is much to kindle the flames of love in this cultural and historic destination. From cozy inns in the countryside to paddle boats on the Mississippi, to exploring the byways of Route 66... Surprise your loved one with a trip to Illinois and they will not be disappointed.
Seniors	Seniors can enjoy a state that makes travel easy. Take one of the many tours available or just explore on your own and at your own pace – the countryside will enchant you and in particular the region around Galena in the state's northwest will delight you.

UNIQUES	Get your kicks on Route 66! America's Road of Dreams is so iconic of Mainstreet USA and there's so much to experience. You can hike on sections that remain paved with bricks, meet ninety year old Bill Shea who still welcomes visitors at his Route 66 Gas Station Museum, ogle the cars at the Pontiac Oakland Automobile Museum, revel in the Route 66 Hall of Fame and Museum and view the Route 66 murals in Pontiac

Surprising	The Cahokia Mounds One of the greatest cities of the world, Cahokia was larger than London was in AD 1250. The Mississippians who lived here were accomplished builders who erected a wide variety of structures from practical homes for everyday living to monumental public works that have maintained their grandeur for centuries. Cahokia Mounds is located in Collinsville, Illinois off Interstates 55/70 and 255. Cahokia Mounds is just fifteen minutes east of St. Louis.
History	Native Americans lived along the waterways of the Illinois area for thousands of years before the arrival of Europeans. The Koster Site has been excavated and demonstrates 7,000 years of continuous habitation. Cahokia, the largest regional chiefdom and urban centre of the Pre-Columbian Mississippian culture, was located near present-day Collinsville, Illinois. They built more than 100 platform and burial mounds, a 50 acres plaza and a woodhenge in a planned design expressing the culture's cosmology. Monks Mound, the center of the site, is the largest precolumbian structure north of the Valley of Mexico and is 100 feet (30 m) high, 951 feet (290 m) long, 836 feet (255 m) wide and covers 13.8 acres (5.6 ha). The civilization vanished in the 15th century for unknown reasons, but historians and archeologists have speculated that the people depleted the area of resources. The next major power in the region was the Illinois Confederation or Illini, a political alliance among several tribes. The Illinois people numbered about 25,000 in 1700, but systematic attacks and warfare by the Iroquois reduced their numbers by 90 percent. Gradually, members of the Potawatomi, Miami, Sauk, and other tribes came in from the east and north. In the American Revolution, the Illinois and Potawatomi supported the American colonists' cause. European exploration French explorers Jacques Marquette and Louis Jolliet explored the Illinois River in 1673. In 1680, other French explorers constructed a fort at the site of present day Peoria, and in 1682, a fort atop Starved Rock in today's Starved Rock State Park. As a result of this French exploration, Illinois was part of the French empire until 1763, when it passed to the British with their conquest of New France. The small French settlements continued; a few British soldiers were posted in Illinois, but there were no British or American settlers. In 1778, George Rogers Clark claimed the Illinois Country for Virginia. The area was ceded by Virginia to the new United States in 1783 and became part of the Northwest Territory. The Illinois-Wabash Company was an early claimant to much of Illinois. The Illinois Territory was created on February 3, 1809, with its capital at Kaskaskia.

During the discussions leading up to Illinois' admission to the Union, the proposed northern boundary of the state was moved twice. The original provisions of the Northwest Ordinance had specified a boundary that would have been tangent to the southern tip of Lake Michigan. Such a boundary would have actually left Illinois with no shoreline on Lake Michigan at all. However, as Indiana had successfully been granted a 16km northern extension of its boundary to provide it with a usable lakefront, the original bill for Illinois statehood, submitted to Congress on January 23, 1818, stipulated a northern border at the same latitude as Indiana's. But the Illinois delegate, Nathaniel Pope, wanted more. Pope lobbied to have the boundary moved further north, and the final bill passed by Congress did just that; it included an amendment to shift the border to 42° 30' north, which is approximately 82 km north of the Indiana northern border. This shift added 22,000 km² to the state, including the lead mining region near Galena. More importantly, it added nearly 80 kms of Lake Michigan shoreline and the Chicago River. Pope and others envisioned a canal which would connect the Chicago and Illinois rivers, and thus, connect the Great Lakes to the Mississippi. In 1818, Illinois became the 21st U.S. state. The capital remained at Kaskaskia, headquartered in a small building rented by the state. In 1819, Vandalia became the capital, and over the next 18 years, three separate buildings were built to serve successively as the capitol building. In 1837, the state legislators representing Sangamon County, under the leadership of state representative Abraham Lincoln, succeeded in having the capital moved to Springfield, where a fifth capitol building was constructed. A sixth capitol building was erected in 1867, which continues to serve as the Illinois capitol today.

Though ostensibly a "free state", Illinois had slavery. The French owned black slaves as late as the 1820s. Slavery was nominally banned by the Northwest Ordinance, but that was not enforced. When Illinois became a sovereign state in 1818, the Ordinance no longer applied, and there were about 900 slaves there. As the southern part of the state, known as "Little Egypt", was largely settled by migrants from the South, the section was hostile to free blacks and allowed settlers to bring slaves with them for labor. Most citizens were opposed to allowing blacks as permanent residents, and efforts to make slavery official failed in 1822. Nevertheless, some slaves were brought in seasonally or as house servants. The Illinois Constitution of 1848 was written with a provision for exclusionary laws to be passed. In 1853, John A. Logan helped pass a law to prohibit all African Americans, including freedmen, from settling in the state.

In 1832, the Black Hawk War was fought in Illinois and current day Wisconsin between the United States and the Sauk, Fox (Meskwaki) and Kickapoo Indian tribes. The Indians withdrew to Iowa; when they attempted to return, they were defeated by U.S. militia and forced back to Iowa.

By 1839, the Mormons had founded a utopian city called Nauvoo. Located in Hancock County, along the Mississippi River, Nauvoo flourished and soon rivaled Chicago for the position of the state's largest city. But in 1844, the Mormon leader Joseph Smith was murdered in the Carthage Jail, about 50kms away from Nauvoo. Soon afterward, after close to six years of rapid development, Nauvoo saw a rapid decline after the Mormons' new leadership led them out of Illinois in a mass exodus to present-day Utah.

Chicago gained prominence as a Great Lakes port and then as an Illinois and Michigan Canal port after 1848, and as a rail hub soon afterward. By 1857, Chicago was Illinois' largest city. With the tremendous growth of mines and factories in the state in the 19th century, Illinois played an important role in the formation of labour unions in the United States. From Sunday, October 8, 1871, until Tuesday, October 10, 1871, the Great Chicago Fire burned in downtown Chicago, destroying 10 km²

During the American Civil War, over 250,000 Illinois men served in the Union Army, a figure surpassed by only New York, Pennsylvania, and Ohio. Beginning with President Abraham Lincoln's first call for troops and continuing throughout the war, Illinois mustered 150 infantry regiments'

At the turn of the 20th century, Illinois had a population of nearly 5 million. Whites were 98% of the state's population. Bolstered by continued immigration from southern and eastern Europe, and by the African American Great Migration, Illinois grew and emerged as one of the most important states in the union. By the end of the century, the population had reached 12.4 million.

The Century of Progress World's Fair was held at Chicago in 1933. Oil strikes in Marion County and Crawford County lead to a boom in 1937, and, by 1939, Illinois ranked fourth in U.S. oil production. Chicago became an ocean port with the opening of the Saint Lawrence Seaway in 1959. The seaway and the Illinois Waterway connected Chicago to both the Mississippi River and the Atlantic Ocean. In 1960, Ray Kroc

Music	Jazz In the first great wave of black migration from the South just after World War I, jazz journeyed from the Storyville section of New Orleans to Chicago. Jelly Roll Morton and Louis Armstrong made Chicago a jazz hot spot in the 1920s, and their music lives on in a whole new generation of talent. Chicago jazz is known for its collaborative spirit and a certain degree of risk-taking -- which you can experience at a number of lively clubs.

	Blues If there's any music that epitomizes Chicago, it's the blues. As African-Americans migrated northward in the years following World War II, they brought their musical traditions with them, including the mournful, guitar-and-harmonica-based sound known as Delta blues. In Chicago, the addition of electric guitar gave the traditional blues a jolt of new life, and local musicians such as Howlin' Wolf, Muddy Waters, and Willie Dixon influenced generations of rockers that followed. Today, blues clubs remain a staple of the cultural scene, but one that attracts mostly niche audiences. Some spots cater to out-of-towners looking for an "authentic" blues experience, while others keep a relatively low profile, surviving thanks to the loyalty of die-hard blues aficionados. I strongly recommend http://www.chicagodetours.com/ as a way of seeing the Jazz and Blues sights of Chicago and really understanding how this music played an important part of the city's development.

The Conn family, decedents of Obed and Cordelia, rescued the family home from demolition and moved it six blocks to its present location. The home now rests on the Lewis property, along with Obed Lewis’ original carriage house built around 1900. In September 2011, the Conn family began to develop the restaurant and brew pub on the historic property. Obed & Issac’s patrons can taste locally brewed beer and great food. Check out obedandisaacs.com. Cozy Dog Drive In – Home of the one and only “Cozy Dog”, the Springfield landmark drive in serves up delicious hot dogs, dipped in batter and deep fried. Ed Waldmire Jr. developed the Cozy Dog, with help from an old college friend, when he served in the Air Force. Cozy Dogs officially launched at the Lake Springfield Beach House in June 1946 and served at the Illinois State Fair the same year. The drive in is a Springfield staple located at 2935 S. Sixth St. in Springfield. To learn more, visit cozydogdrivein.com.
